Feminine Stars Ready For Big Regatta Race

Girls' Crews Practise on Harbor Each Evening—Fair Sex Takes Interest in Rowing and Sends Barge Through Water in Fast Style—Hilo Boat Club Will Have Strong Crew—Myrtle Barge Arrives From Coast—Program is Announced

"Come up, Kunalu Reds. Back, Kunalu Blues." That will be the cry of the starter when the two crews get off in one of the big regatta features on Saturday, September 16. He will not hear the well-known cry, "Follow us to it." This won't be that kind of race.

"Now, girls, we've got to win," will come from the coxed sliding-seat barge, and for the first time in many years the crowd lined on the shore will see two girls' crews battling for supremacy. They can row. Ask E. J. Hardesty, who has been coaching one of the crews. Last night on the harbor one of the crews took the barge away with an even stroke and Hardesty gave them a fast trial, and moved the stroke up close to 30.

"Altogether, girls." "Straight back, No. 1." "Altogether, girls." "Catch the water." These are only a few of the expressions used, and each evening the girls have been improving in the way of setting more speed out of the shell. They are willing to take advice from their tutor, and when the big race is scheduled are confident that they will not disappoint the crowd.

More than 20 young ladies turned out for the crews this year, and there will be a hard fight for places on one of the barges. Several of the girls have been rowing for more than two years, and much interest has been taken in the sport. The girls show the benefit of the outdoor exercise, and all have taken up the training in earnest.

There is a plan on foot at present to enlarge the clubhouse of the Kunalu, and with increased interest in rowing since the announcement that the crews would take part in the regatta, it is expected that within a short time improvements will be made on the present structure.

Crew Sets Pace
Last evening Hardesty had one of the crews out. Seated in the barge were Pearl McCarthy, coxswain; Louise McCarthy, stroke; Margaret McLennan, Abbie Lucas, Bernice Gustine, Matilda Madsen and Gertrude Mason. They all appeared to be very keen on setting a fast pace, and considering the short practice in a sliding-seat barge made a good impression.

With the regatta only a few days off, the crews on the harbor are going after things in great shape. They have not been picked as yet, but after next Monday the boys who take the seats in the practice trials will be the ones who will enter the race.

Hilo is coming with a strong crew this year, and in a letter to the Star-Bulletin, Mel Nicoll, prominent sportsman of Hilo, states that the Hilo crew will be an improvement on the six which made such a great showing against the Honolulu crews on July 4 at the Crescent City. Nicoll is one of the leading rowing authorities in Hawaii, and his statement means that the local crews will have to be busy every minute.

The new Myrtle barge received a tryout last evening for the first time and looks like a fast moving boat. The barge is heavy and well lined, and the club members believe that this boat will show more speed than the Torbert.

The Hawaiian Rowing Association has completed arrangements for the staging of events and the following program will be followed:

1. Senior six-oared sliding-seat barge. Gold medal to each man on winning crew. Course, end of naval wharf to apex buoy and return to judges' stand.
2. Ladies' six-oared sliding-seat barge. Cup to winner. Buoy 7 to judges' stand.
3. Four-oared steamer boat. Trophy to winner. Spar buoy to judges' stand.
4. Freshman six-oared sliding-seat barge. Bronze medal to each man on winning crew. Course same as senior barge.
5. Twelve-oared naval cutter. Cup to winner. Course same as barges.
6. Senior scull. Gold medal. Buoy 7 to judges' stand.
7. Junior six-oared sliding-seat barge. Silver medal to each man on winning crew. Course same as senior barge.
8. Senior scull. Gold medal. Buoy 7 to judges' stand.
9. Six-oared sliding-seat barge for boys under 20. Silver trophy to winning crew. Buoy 7 to judges' stand.
10. Junior scull. Silver medal to each man on winning boat, same as senior pair-oared boat.
11. Six-oared sliding-seat barge for boys under 20. Silver trophy to winning crew. Buoy 7 to judges' stand.
12. Six-oared sliding-seat barge for boys under 20. Silver trophy to winning crew. Buoy 7 to judges' stand.

Note: The judges' stand will be opposite the end of the naval wharf.

They Are Not Oarsmen--But They Are Going to Row

For the first time in a number of years the fair sex will be represented in the annual regatta. Two crews from the Kunalu Club will meet in one of the feature events of the harbor. The Kunalu "Blues" were photographed last evening just before taking their seats in the barge. They are: Left to right—Miss Matilda Madsen, bow; Miss Gertrude Mason, No. 2; Miss Bernice Gustine, No. 3; Miss Abbie Lucas, No. 4; Miss Margaret McLennan, No. 5; Miss Louise McCarthy, stroke; Miss Pearl McCarthy, coxswain.

GREAT COLORED SPRINTER WILL RACE NO MORE

Genuine regret is expressed on all sides at the closing of the athletic career of Howard P. Drew, one of the greatest sprinters in athletic history, who recently suffered a stroke of paralysis. That the Los Angeles speed marvel will never again be seen on the cinder path is the opinion of his physician, Dr. W. A. Tarleton. According to the doctor, paralysis was brought about by the efforts of Drew to put on extra speed in order to overtake a competitor in the recent Far Western track and field meet at San Diego. His ailment was diagnosed as a dislocation of the fourth lumbar vertebrae, which produced pressure on the sciatic nerve.

Drew has been competing in athletics, football, baseball and track since 1905. He sprang into prominence as an athlete in 1912 when he was chosen as a member of the American track and field team which traveled to Stockholm, Sweden. Drew was a student of the Springfield, Mass., High school at the time.

In the trial heats held at Stockholm, Drew sprained a tendon and was put out of the running. Upon his return he decided to come West with Fred Kelly and enter the University of Southern California.

It was while a member of this team that Drew developed into the greatest sprinter in the world. In 1913 he equaled the world's record of 9.35 seconds and also tied the furlong mark of 21.15 seconds. Drew on numerous occasions sprinted the century in 9.45 seconds.

Last summer Drew suffered a complete breakdown in the Far Western track and field championship meet. After resting for several months Drew traveled East and defeated the best sprinters in the country.

Drew planned to regain his lost laurels in the Far Western and national A. A. U. track and field championships for 1916.

SADTLER MAKES NEW RECORD IN RIFLE FIRING

Lieut. Otis Sadtler of the 32nd Infantry, in addition to being a star baseball player, an excellent golfer, and an all-around athlete, is considered one of the best shots at the post. In the rapid fire shooting at the post Sadtler made a new island record, scoring 279 out of 300.

Sadtler has been practicing on the range for some time, and his work has been a revelation to the other marksmen. He took up golf some months ago, and is now a finished player. Now he has turned his time to shooting, and in a short time established a record that will be hard to beat.

His score for the 300 shots was as follows: 45 at 300 yards, 47 at 500, 48 at 600, 47 at 200, 47 at 300, and 45 at 500. Inasmuch as Sadtler has

M TROOP WINS FROM K SQUAD IN POST GAME

Cavalry Contest Goes to Ems When They Bunch Hits in Second and Third Innings

In the first game of the inter-troop series at Castner, Sunday afternoon, Troop M defeated the fast K Troop team by the score of 10 to 5.

Despite the large score the game was interesting in many ways. Brown pitching for M Troop struck out 13 men and held the K Troop team helpless for seven innings, allowing but one hit. In the eighth the M Troop team slowed up, and before the inning was over K Troop had put 5 runs across the plate, but King came to the rescue and put the game on ice. Roach, Crane and Brown played a fine game for K Troop, while King, Shanley, Zimmer and Scott were the stars for M Troop. In the seventh Zimmer pulled down Fleckno's hot liner and turned it into a double play. Score: M, 10; K, 5.

'JIMMY' JUMP IN BOOK TELLS OF HAWAII ANGLING

Extracts From His "Jumping in Hawaii" Boosts Game Fishing in Islands

(From "Jumping Around in Hawaii," by James W. Jump of Los Angeles.)

"Aloha, Hawaii. Aloha nui qel! I went to Hawaii primarily and chiefly to fish. Had sounded the depths and joys of Catalina, Clemente and other sojourning places of big game fish at sea, and sighed for new waters in which to angle.

"Here is the answer: Hawaiian waters offer the best and most diversified deep sea fishing to be had in the world.

"When one has taken yellowfin tuna, ulu, ono, dolphin, kawakawa, kahi, all big game fish, and nine other varieties, in one afternoon's fishing, as I have, almost any degree of enthusiasm is pardonable. Sport almost as good as this was repeated day after day.

"Let's pass up the journey to Honolulu for the present and get right down to fish hooks and leaders. We're fishing from the stern of a Japanese sampan, with heavy tackle and light tackle, with a small opelu (a small fish, a cross between a mackerel and a sardine), a spoon, a red feather, or almost any old thing for bait. Happens we are close to shore, where the coral reefs take the place of the kelp beds of Catalina and Clemente.

"Z-z-z-z-z! You don't know what it is, but whatever it is, it's a real fish. Such a delightful uncertainty when you don't know the water, the fish or the boat, but the sky is blue, the air is soft and balmy and the water's fine.

The Fighting Ulu

"Just a short run and down goes the fish, headed for the rocks and the bottom. It is an ulu, broad of tail, chunky as to body, heavy as to shoulders and with a Roman nose; a hard-pounding fighter that knows that if it can reach the rocks it's all off.

"It is the hardest fighting fish they have, pound for pound. It goes up to 150 pounds, but mine weighed only 33 pounds, lasting 25 minutes on a light tackle.

"Leaving out, for the present, the swordfish and the yellowfin tuna, which are also found elsewhere, the ulu is entitled to consideration as a typical Hawaiian game fish. With a body shaped like that of a swordfish and a pike-shaped head, and weighing up to 100 pounds, the ulu strikes more swiftly and harder than any other game fish of its size. A boat cannot run fast enough to keep them away from the bait. It is a pretty fighter, too, making long runs just beneath the surface, that take out 500 or 600 feet of line; it does not sound nor sulk like the tuna or ulu.

"But at the end of a run, watch out! Back comes the ulu, often in a straight line, and swiftly. The angler must be on his guard; the come-back may break the line or tangle it; the angler can only reel in and pray.

"Good fortune is with us, and at the end of the first run the ulu is brought to gaff. Sixty-two pounds. Some fish.

"The ulu is taken both close to shore and in the channels. The latter island steamer officers are accommodating chaps. The passengers put out bendlines, and should an ulu, tuna or other fish 'hook on' the boat is stopped so that the fish can be 'hand-lined' in. That would not do on the Cabrillo or Hermosa.

Further extracts will be published in succeeding issues.
